Mr. George Kennan lectured on "Siberia" last evening at Association Hall, at the corner of Twenty-third street and Fourth avenue. Mr. Lewis Thompson, Socretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, presided, and introduced Mr. Kennan, who said that if the United Section 1 and 1 are section [N. Y. World.] would still remain 1,000,000 square miles uncovered, and that a broad belt of land extending from the southern part of Siberia to what was known as the Central Forest was one of the most fertile and genial places in the Russian empire. The idea that exile life in Siberia is one of suffering in dungeons, and McKenzie John, trustee. 4378 beria is one of suffering in dungeons, and that political agitators suffer untold miseries in mines, is all a mistake. "The Russian Government," he said, "in the beginning sent out its prisoners to Siberia in order to settle the country. Good homes were provided and farming utensils given the exiles, and such is the case of to-day. There are two divisions in the exiles, the first of whom I will designate as convicts, and the second as those simply banished. The first class work in the western part of the fertile tract I have alluded to. There are no exiles in any of the very cold parts of Siberia. The only convicts who work in the mines are men, who had they that political agitators suffer untold mis-Iglauer S, trustee. 4718

Most of the inhabi-tants are the descendents of exiles, who were banished long ago for very small offences. The number of political prisoners is very small. From 1867 to 1872 64,225 people were sent to Siberia; 5,300 were sentenced to hard labor, and the rest were only banished. There are an-Coffin Banderson & Cook,

So this proves that nihilism is not a popular uprising against the Russian Government. Tomak and Omsk are two of the wealthiest places in Siberia, and most of the political prisoners are sent there. the political prisoners are sent there.

Omsk has 20,000 inhabitants, 452 merchants, a public library, a boy's military school and a ladies' seminary. I visited one of these political exiles, who as a photographer has made money there. He was living in a fashionable house, adorned with pictures and works of art. He spoke bitterly against the practice of transporting prisoners, but admitted that he was living well. I know that there have been crimes committed in Siberian prisons, but crimes as bad have occurred.

The prisoners are however, very well treated. I think that the custom of transporting prisoners will be stopped in a very few years, or greatly modified."
